CANADIANS FOR ACCOUNTABILITY PRIVACY STATEMENT

Canadians for Accountability, a federally incorporated not-for-profit organization, is committed to protecting the privacy and personal information of each member.

Personal information collected by Canadians for Accountability is strictly for our own use, and is never shared with any party not directly involved with the operations of the organization. Members of the organizations are not permitted to reveal or use any personal information provided by a member in any way outside of the context of the organizational mandate without the permission of the person involved.

Personal information collected may include your contact information (as above), and information provided by the organization during their interaction with other members of the organization, particularly with board and executive members in the process of providing support to the member. A member wishing to review the personal information collected regarding them may do so by writing to our Secretary.

Each member's personal information is retained by the organization until the member withdraws his/her membership or until his/her membership is terminated by the organization.

Canadians for Accountability promotes a spirit of openness and transparency, and at the same time values the protection of each individual's right to privacy. Should you have any concerns, please contact our Secretary or any member of our Board.

I have read the above privacy statement, and agree to the collection of information as described above.

I agree to pay the annual non-refundable membership fee of $_____.
[Note: Canadians for Accountability will issue a receipt for your records.]
